The ADS Web Services allow the development of independent web applications of the device (HTML5, WCF). It allows the exchange of data and control of TwinCat systems. The Software Development Kit (.NET) can be used to schedule specific solutions of the application (for example, business logics, proprietary protocols). Data packets can be recorded through the announcement monitor using the integrated diagnostic interface. The specification of the automation device (ADS) is the Twincat communication protocol. If there is an exception, the PLC programmer wants to respond. With the graphic editor WYSIWYG (what-you-view-is-what-you-get), the controls can be organized easily through dragging and releasing and linking with variables in real time. As simple as the configuration is, the handling is equally adaptable: this solution-based solution, which is based on HTML5 and JavaScript, actually responsibly *, independently of the operating system, the browser and the device.
